

ILLINOIS STATE TROOPER KILLS TWO SISTERS WHILE DRIVING 126 MPH

The day after Thanksgiving in 2007, Illinois State Trooper Matt Mitchell was driving 126 MPH when he lost control of the patrol car he was driving. His vehicle crossed the center median, became airborne and crashed into a car occupied by 18-year-old Jessica Uhl and her 13-year-old sister Kelli. Both girls were killed upon impact.

Trooper Mitchell was texting and making personal cell phone calls at the time of the crash. He was subsequently prosecuted for negligent homicide.

“DRIVE LIKE A LIFE DEPENDS ON IT.”

This poster produced by the Yolo County Sheriff's Office in Woodland, California with the permission of Kimberly Schlauf, Jessica and Kelli's mother.

www.Below100.com

Sponsored by

An initiative from

In Partnership with

